

White Card Sydney your first step to a new career in Construction

Construction work in Sydney is still out performing many other employment sectors-and having White Card Sydney accreditation is your first step to being employed in what could be a long and profitable career. If you're not really sure what a White Card is, maybe check out our blog What Is White Card Training? It doesn't matter if it's a multi-million dollar road building project, or a three person housing extension, you need to have White Card Sydney accreditation before you can enter any construction site.

The construction and building sector is one of the largest areas of employment in Australia. There are over one million Australians who are already carrying their white cards, and working in the construction industry. And Sydney is one of the largest areas for employing construction workers, all of whom have completed their White Card Sydney induction.

All statistics and projections seem to suggest the Construction Industry is predicted to keep steadily growing for some time yet.

- read our blog Key Construction Jobs in High Demand.
- the Australian Government Employment Projections predict that nearly all areas of the Construction Industry should keep growing strongly at least up until 2020.
- a representative from the key Construction and Building Industry representatives, the Master Builders Association was recently quoted as saying 'demand for managers and workers in construction will "significantly exceed domestic supply over the medium-to-long-term".'

Within an industry sector as large as Construction and Building in Sydney, there are an amazing range of career pathways that all require White Card Sydney accreditation. From physically demanding jobs like labouring, concreting, brick laying, and pipe laying, to stimulating work like site supervisors, shift coordinators, and site safety coordinators, you will be astonished at how many opportunities can present themselves to people who have the right attitude, necessary personal skills and training.

Although every area of employment has specific requirements, having White Card Sydney accreditation, is the first prerequisite for every single construction job. Maybe a career in construction is worth considering,

- if you've just left school and the idea of being shut inside doing even more studying really isn't for you
- if your stomach churns when you think about returning to office based work
- if you're a backpacker and serving coffees leaves you cold
- if you're a mature aged worker who's seeking to restart your employment (and your bank balance)

-
- if you simply want the chance to join all the other Sydneysiders earning the big bucks in the still booming construction industry

Once you've completed your White Card Sydney training, you can begin your search for the type of career in the construction and building industries that best matches your personal skills.

To enroll, or find any other information concerning our One Day White Card Sydney course - contact our Nationally Recognised Training organisation - Edway Training.

Call us nationally on our 1300 663 350 hotline, Email info@edway.edu.au, follow us on Facebook, or simply fill out the form on our Contact Page

This blog is general in nature and is ONLY meant to give readers an overview of the subject matter. Do NOT rely on this information for your specific needs. If you are planning to undertake any training courses we highly recommend that you arrange for an accredited career development professional to advise on the SPECIFIC requirements you need to gain employment in your chosen group of occupations.